Plexus Law Expands Team in Manchester Ahead of 1st March Opening

Plexus Law, part of the Parabis Group, is delighted to announce that it has successfully recruited five highly skilled Associates for its new Manchester office ahead of the grand opening on 1st March 2010.

Lorien Helm, Nicola Skeldon, Nikki Kerr, Libby Ferrie and John Haynes all join Plexus from Halliwells and will work alongside already appointed Partners, Chris Gough, Tim Short and Louise Shaw in building a strong presence in Manchester. In addition, Plexus has also recruited a number of Solicitors and Legal Executives who will join the office during March.

Plexus is also in the process of appointing a number of other Solicitors, Legal Executives and support staff. The firm was delighted by the response of both clients and potential applicants following the announcement in November that it would be expanding into Manchester.

Plexus has taken 9,000 sq feet of office space on the 21st floor of the prestigious City Tower complex located in Piccadilly Gardens in the heart of Manchester City Centre. The new high specification office space was chosen for both its location and ability to provide space for growth as the team expands to meet the rapidly growing needs of clients in the North West.

Commenting on the appointments and office opening Andrew McDougall, Senior Partner at Plexus Law said:

"We are delighted to welcome every new member of the Manchester team to the firm. As stated previously Plexus has ambitious plans to build on the exceptional growth and success we have achieved to date and the fact that so many highly skilled legal professionals at all levels have approached us is testament to our reputation for high quality legal advice and innovation".
