

Motor Prosecution Services

The Plexus Motor Prosecution Services (MPS) Team specialise in representing individuals being investigated or prosecuted for any motoring offence. The team pride themselves on being able to advise from the outset thus providing a single point of contact and representation throughout. Geographically there are no constraints, with the team able to deal with matters anywhere in the Country.

The MPS team has an unrivalled skill set, limiting the need for outside expertise and setting them apart from other firms which in turn helps to keep costs to a minimum.

Initial Advice

Once a matter has been notified to us we are able to visit the client and seek immediate instructions as to how the event occurred. We visit the scene of the accident and prepare an advice to insurers and policyholders alike outlining the possible actions that may follow.

Judicial Reviews

Where we consider a decision has been made unreasonably by the Police/Court/CPS the team have extensive experience in pursuing such matters to judicial review at the High Court.

Representation

Immediate representation at Police interviews

In cases where an interview under caution is requested we are able to explain the process to the policyholder and request disclosure. At this stage we advise as to whether we should proceed with a no comment, prepared statement or full account in the interview.

Representation at Magistrates and Crown Court Hearings

The team members personally appear in Court on the policyholder's behalf. They deal with all hearings such as entering a plea, pre trial review/plea and case management hearing, and the substantive Trial. In the event of a guilty plea we are able to mitigate advancing special reasons and exceptional hardship arguments.

Inquests

In most cases we personally appear in Court to represent policyholders not only to safeguard their interests but also to test the evidence, which may form the basis of a civil claim. We also provide a watching brief at these hearings and report back to insurers with detailed information as to accident circumstances and the witness/expert evidence.
